

President's Message

Welcome to July-September 2018 Issue

It is heartening to note that the Journal finally appears to be picking up both readers and submissions. However, this is not the time to stop and rest. With every passing day, there is a lot of expectations from Asian scientists that someday the Journal will be considered by everybody as a great place to publish their best works. No single Journal has become famous in one day. I would implore all our readers, members and well-wishers to contribute to the Journal in the form of quality papers, whether they are ethno notes or research papers or reviews. Once again thanks to our Chief Editor Dr. Christophe Wiart for his tireless effort to publish the Journal on time. Since we are taking the effort to get the Journal indexed in PubMed and SCOPUS, we need more and more quality articles. It may also be time to publish a special issue on say "Neurodegenerative diseases and phytotherapy", or any other subject deemed important by the scientists. We should also think of Conferences and other means to generate maximum interest for our Society. On behalf of the Society and the Journal Board, I wish you all the very best.
